SCHOOL REPORT.

Your Superintendent, in presenting this his annual report to his fellow townsmen, will say he has endeavored, as well as his health and ability would allow, to look after, and have a special care for the interest of your schools, though it was with much distrust that your Committee undertook the duties assigned him. The office was new to him, and he felt that it involved interests of vast importance to the town. But, I am happy to report the schools, with perhaps one or two exceptions, in a very prosperous condition. We have been pleased during the year to notice the interest manifested by our scholars, and the advancement they have made in their studies. Let parents suitably discharge their duties to the teacher and scholars, and success will await our efforts. Parents should be very careful when, and how they speak before their children, in regard to their teacher or school. It is of vast importance that everything should be done for the best good of the young and rising generation. In some districts I see there is a feeling of exasperation, or prejudice, existing among some, caused by politics, or some old grudge. It should never be mentioned in connection with our school meetings. As St. Paul says, "let it not so much as be named among you," especially for the good of our schools. I would say our examinations have been very well attended during the year, particularly by the ladies. Some are finding fault with their teachers without knowing anything about them or the school. I would say to such, come in and see; it will do you good. We never should find fault without some reason.

TEACHERS.

Too much importance cannot be attached to the duty of selecting teachers. Those who attempt to teach should have an adequate idea of the duties and responsibilities of teachers. They should not teach simply because they can find nothing else to do. They should have an idea of what has been done by others, of what has interested others, and of what teachers are expected to do for themselves, for the schools, for the community at large. If there is one accomplishment more than any other that is to be desired in acquiring an education, I think it is good reading. Too many of our teachers in this branch are deficient themselves, and it cannot be expected that they will teach more than they know. Children need to be both taught and trained in reading, more than anything else. Nothing so prejudices children against everything that is pleasant to the school-room, as the snappish treatment they are often subjected to, at the hands of a peevish teacher. Give us order, the best order; but deliver us from teachers who cannot maintain government without perpetually scolding or resorting to blows for every trifle.

DISTRICT NO. ONE.

The summer term was taught by Miss DELLIE E. HAINES, a teacher of much experience, well qualified to fill the place she occupied as a teacher. I was in at the commencement and at its close. I was much pleased with all the examination, especially Arithmetic, Geography, Algebra and Penmanship. As a teacher, Miss Haines is ranked among our best teachers, so she can do about as she pleases. She commenced the fall term, taught eight weeks, and having a louder call she left, without giving the Superintendent any notice. I was in at the commencement of the fall term, found all things going on pleasant with the exception of a little better order, which is necessary, in order for our improvement.

Winter term commenced by Miss MIRIAM B. GILMORE, one of our most thorough and efficient teachers, with large experience. I was much pleased with the appearance of the school at the commencement, but after being in session two weeks, she was obliged to give it up on account of her health. Could she have continued the school until the close, it would have been a complete success, for she was just the one they needed. The Superintendent heard that a Miss somebody from Manchester, had commenced school on her own hook. As the teacher has not presented herself for a certificate, it would be compromising the dignity of the Superintendent to run after her. And so she left. The remaining six weeks to be taught is under the charge of Miss LAURA A. RIDDLE, a teacher whose natural tact and superior education, with a considerable experience, renders her one of the best. She is a graduate from the Normal school, and thorough in every point. The school is still in operation. We would like to retain Miss Riddle as one of our teachers.

DISTRICT No. TWO.

Both Summer and Autumn terms were taught by Miss A. E. SHEDD, an active, energetic, and experienced teacher, well qualified to fill any position she may be called to occupy. When she says a thing, she means it. Her school was under the best of discipline, and her examination made interesting by the prompt and correct manner in which the classes exhibited their improvement. Length of school eighteen weeks; might have been longer had she not been previously engaged.

REMARKS BY THE TEACHER.

The progress of the school was very sensibly retarded, at the commencement, by the prevalence of the measles, unhappily, and unpleasant feelings exist in the minds of some in the district concerning the school, resulting in the withdrawal of a portion of the school. The teacher came here forewarned of this, but with a "conscience void of offense," has sought to discharge her duties faithfully. Though the scholars are young and in some respects backward, she awards them praise for their good deportment, trusting that the term has been pleasant and profitable to all who have remained connected with the school.

DISTRICT No. THREE.

Summer term was taught by Miss EUNICE STEVENS, who was amply qualified to instruct in the various branches required by law to be taught in our district schools. The school appeared well at the commencement, and I left having no fear for the prosperity of the school; but in the course of two or three weeks, was surprised to hear that she had closed her school and gone home. I cannot help feeling that if all who were concerned in the school should have adopted the golden rule, "to do to others as we would they should to us," Miss Stevens would have remained in her school until the close. The remaining summer term of eight weeks was taught by Miss M. ABBIE CENTER of Litchfield. I inspected the school soon after its commencement, and found it to be starting off in a satisfactory manner. This school was characterized by good order, correct and thorough teaching, and good sense in all the minute details of its management. The examination was conducted with good judgment, and exhibiting good progress in all the scholars. Was glad to see many in at the close.

Fall term commenced by Miss WALKER of Manchester, kept two weeks or more, and left without any notice, or register returned. Therefore I cannot report. The remainder of the term was finished by Miss SARAH M. FOSTER, a teacher of much experience and finished qualifications. Was glad to know you was so fortunate as to secure the services of Miss Foster, who has made for herself a reputation unsurpassed by any one in town, and when we know she has charge of a school, we know our every wish will be realized. I regret that on account of sickness I was detained from the examination.

DISTRICT No. FOUR.

Summer and Fall term was taught by Miss JOSIE M. ROLLINS. Few young teachers can commence school-keeping in their own district, and succeed as well as they would be likely to do among strangers; but there are exceptions to this rule, and this instance was a most happy one. The teacher appeared perfectly at home, and managed the school as though she had taught many terms. The good improvement shown by the examination could have been certainly foretold by anyone acquainted with the way the school was managed. All appeared satisfied.

Winter term by Miss SARAH M. FOSTER, whose school I never can visit without feeling to exclaim, how excellent! Excellent in order, excellent in prompt and pleasing manners, excellent in all things.

DISTRICT NO. FIVE.

Taught by Miss ANNA D. FRENCH. The school, in all respects was most admirably managed, and the success was all that could be desired. Everything about the school-room was kept in the neatest and most orderly shape possible, and the classes were drilled with great accuracy and precision. At the closing review, the classes exhibited their attainments in a pleasing manner, proving that they had been thoroughly trained, reflecting much credit to both teacher and scholar.

Winter term by Mrs. Dr. STEVENS, who had charge of the school. This district was fortunate in selecting her for a teacher. She is a lady of much experience and fine abilities, being perfectly at home in the school-room. Her whole management of the school being of the strictest, nicest, and most pleasing manner. The examination gave positive proof that the winter's work here performed was a most profitable one to all connected with it. The house, both terms, was beautifully decorated with evergreen.

DISTRICT NO. SIX.

Summer term. This was the first school Miss NELLIE B. CHAMBERLAIN had taught. Miss Chamberlain is a young lady possessing more than ordinary merit. On visiting the school at the commencement it was evident that the term would be one that would give general satisfaction. I believe that not one word from any one in the district was spoken against the school; all were perfectly satisfied. The examination at the close of the school was pleasant and the recitations good. The school though small appeared to do all they could to please their teacher. Miss Chamberlain, I think, after some experience will rank amongst our best teachers. Winter term. This school was under the care of Miss ROCKWOOD, a young lady from Manchester. She makes the school-room pleasant to her scholars. This was Miss Rockwood's first term of teaching school. She seemed interested in her labors, and well qualified for her position. I was in at the opening of the school found things moving in a straight forward manner, everything seemed to be in good order. As I am obliged to hand in my report, and your school is now in session, I have nothing more to say.

DISTRICT NO. SEVEN.

The Summer term of ten weeks was taught by Miss EMMA J. WITHERSPOON, an experienced and faithful teacher. The school enjoyed the advantage of a teacher familiar with the habits and capacities of the scholars. She made the school-room pleasant to the scholars, and was, I think, quite successful as a teacher. At the closing exhibition the district was represented wholly by ladies, and the delegation was by no means a small one.

Winter term by Miss ABBIE C. PAGE, of Dunbarton, a teacher of some experience and good recommendations. This school commenced under very favorable auspices, although some of the scholars had made up their minds at the commencement of the school, not to respect her, or obey the orders of school. I think if the scholars had done as they ought, Miss Page might have finished her school and come off with honor, and the district have been perfectly satisfied. The remaining four weeks was taught by Mrs. FANNIE A. AVERILL an experienced and efficient teacher. The government of the school was excellent and it was maintained without losing the respect of her scholars. I was in at the close of the school, was much pleased with the reading classes, and the small classes in Mental Arithmetic and Geography. They have made great improvement in all their studies.

DISTRICT NO. EIGHT.

Summer term was commenced by Miss TOPLIFF, of Goffstown, and continued eight weeks; I was in at the first part of the school and found things going on very pleasantly. Had the district been united, I think there would have been no cause for fault-finding, with the exception of better order. As no register has been returned, and hearing she left on account of sickness, I have no further remarks to make.

Fall term, by Miss LETITIA M. ADAMS, of New Boston. I was in at the commencement of the school and found things moving in a quiet and easy manner. Not being notified of its close, and no register returned, I cannot make further report. Miss Adams commenced the winter term and taught two weeks and the school was closed, for reasons best known to herself, and district. The remainder of the Winter term was taught by Mr. SILAS HOLBROOK. I was in at the commencement, every thing in a prosperous condition. Good order and harmony prevailed in the school. Thoroughness rather than haste characterized the instruction, and very praiseworthy success in all the branches of study crowned the labors of the teacher, who seemed to possess the confidence and enjoy the aid of all the parents in the district. The school is still in session.

DISTRICT NO. NINE.

Under the charge of Miss MARIAM B. GILMORE, both terms. She has fully sustained the high reputation previously won in the same position. She has succeeded in interesting her pupils in their studies, has maintained excellent order, and has manifested a patient zeal which entitles her to the gratitude of all the true friends of education in the district. Feeling the kindest interest in her pupils, she has won their love and good will and excited their desire to gain her approbation. At the closing examination there was a beautiful writing-desk presented to their teacher by the scholars, as a token of respect. Presentation was made by Miss Fannie Perry, who was very prettily replied to by their teacher. I was very glad to see so many in at the closing of the school.

REMARKS BY THE TEACHER.

This is one of the first schools in town; if it is not No. 1, it certainly ranks as such, and is all attributed to the training at home. Our former Superintendent remarks, "one can determine what the home influence is by the conduct of children in school." His words are verified. As you enter the school-room, you perceive at once, the results of obedience at home. The pupils are kind and respectful to each other, to the teacher and to every one. Many thanks to the children and friends of this school for their past kindness. Also for their donation of a much valued present, (at the close of the last session,) which is both useful and ornamental.

DISTRICT NO. TEN.

Summer and Winter terms taught by Miss SALLIE D. FRENCH; though young and inexperienced, she assumed the duties of teacher, with ease and readiness, manifesting qualities that will render her successful as a teacher. The school was well governed, and the manner of teaching clear, and thorough. The one excellence here observed, which is worthy of the highest commendation, was, the very clear and audible manner in which the children were taught to read and speak. Scholars are almost sure to imitate their teacher in this respect. The winter term was made much more pleasant, as well as profitable, by an addition to the number of scholars from the adjoining district. Every thing pertaining to the room appeared neat and in the best order. Was glad to see so many in at the close of the school.

DISTRICT NO. ELEVEN.

Summer and Fall terms were taught by Miss MARY E. ODION, of New Castle, a teacher of much promise, well qualified to fill the place of teacher. She was one which many might pattern by. She ruled with a gentle hand, but her authority was respected. Few teachers begin with better promise. At the closing review the various classes exhibited their attainments in a pleasing and creditable manner, both to herself and those who were present. It is much to the credit of Miss Odion, that all the branches receive due attention under her instruction.

Respectfully submitted.
